Paul Rowe Oceans in oils

Concept:

I have always had a close connection with the ocean, and it is a fascinating subject to paint. Each sunset and each day brings a different color and feeling, it's a subject that can never be the same to paint from one moment to the next, constantly changing it is a subject that presents a constant challenge for an artist. This exhibition is mainly a collection of paintings of where I grew up in England and also of where I live now in Japan.

Bio:

I started painting about seven years ago, and have exhibited in Nagoya, Toyota, Gifu, Chita, Kobe and Osaka. My paintings have been purchased by patrons from Japan, Australia, America Canada and England, I have had no formal training, I am as they say a self-taught artist. Oil paint is the medium that I use ninety percent of the time. I am from Cornwall in England and the paintings here today that represent the coastline of England are from that county. Thank you for taking time to view these works and I hope very much you enjoy the exhibition.
