Place: :Venture Hall, Venture Business Laboratory 3F

Title : "Break the Ice!!" in Workshop or Webinar

Lecturer: Prof. Yoshiharu Matsuura (Designated Professor of Doctoral Education Consortium, Nagoya University / Professor Emeritus, Nagoya University)

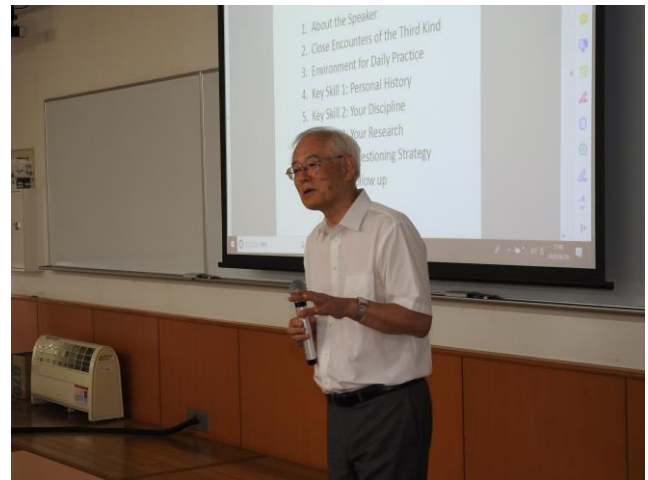

Language: English

Abstract:

The first meeting with experts from other professions is always a challenge.

This is even so when we speak a foreign language and meet the people from different cultures. This talk will report a well-designed environment of Oxbridge colleges for cross-disciplinary communication and identify some key skills to "break the ice."

The speaker has spent substantial amount of time in the United States, Canada and the United Kingdom. Based upon the past experience, the speaker wishes to share the know-how to develop the skills to work in global organizations.

BIO:

The speaker is interested in the nineteenth century development of legal theory both in Europe and Japan. He taught legal theory, legal history, law & economics, law and information technology and so forth. The speaker's team got involved in the development of "Japanese Law Translation" database system by the Ministry of Justice.
